Ryan White has successfully represented clients ranging from Fortune 1000 companies to fledgling entrepreneurs and first-time home buyers. He focuses on obtaining a clear understanding of his clients' goals and delivering the knowledge and action tailored to achieve those goals efficiently and effectively.

Ryan has represented clients in front of hearing examiners, administrative appeals boards and in superior court, including successfully arguing esoteric procedural issues in the land-use appeals (LUPA) context. Outside of litigation, Ryan has assisted large corporate clients in designing, implementing and closing complex ownership and asset sales involving real estate, employment and intellectual property matters. In addition, Ryan has assisted clients in creating condominiums, buying and selling commercial and residential property, resolving boundary-line disputes, preparing employment contracts, business financing, managing homeowners' associations, producing and promoting music festivals and more.

“I believe the basis of the attorney-client relationship is trust,” Ryan says. “My goal is to build trust with the people I work for by fostering clear and accurate communication and producing reliable, high-quality results.”

In 2010, Ryan was honored to be selected by the Community Foundation of Thurston County as pro bono legal counsel in a real-property matter. When not practicing law, Ryan is an enthusiastic reader and accomplished sailor.
