Stephen Manning

Stephen Manning's current practice emphasizes litigation and client advice in the areas of business, employment, real estate, health care, and administrative law. As a former small business owner himself, Stephen knows the value of obtaining timely practical advice so that his clients can have the timely answers they need. In litigation matters, he has achieved good results for clients in trials, mediations, arbitrations, and administrative hearings. Whatever your case may involve, Stephen's focus is on providing you effective representation that produces positive results for you.
